AJLS ANNUAL MEETING: An annual meeting is organized by an elected Chair and held at the Chair's institution. A call for papers is announced in the Spring issue of the AJLS newsletter. Selection of proposed papers for the meeting is made by the Chair and Vice-Chair (a chair-in-waiting for the coming year's meeting) of each annual meeting. A program of the meeting is published in the Fall issue of the Newsletter. Unless invited by the Chair, all panel participants must become AJLS members before their presentation.

PAJLS PUBLICATION: All papers presented during the annual meeting can be included in the PAJLS. All contributors are allowed to revise their papers after presentation. The proceedings of the annual meeting are published the following year.

AJLS ANNUAL MEETING

Our fourteenth annual meeting will be held at Dartmouth College, Hanover, NH, 7-9 October 2005 and will be co-chaired by Professors Dennis Washburn and James Dorsey. This year's meeting will feature the theme "Reading Material: The Production of Narratives, Genres, and Literary Identities" and will discuss the relationship between the content of literary texts (fictional narratives, history, poetry) and the materials by which texts are produced and disseminated. The keynote speaker will be Professor Jordan Sand of Georgetown University. All inquiries should be sent to:
